Dear Kaveri Thakuria,

thanks for your quick reply. Please find attached the original and my redesigned figure. The original figure appeared in "Aging cognition: from neuromodulation to representation": <https://www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/pii/S1364661300017691> as Figure 3.

In my doctoral thesis, I would like to use an illustration whose content I have completely redesigned. The figure initially appeared in an Elsevier publication, and I can acquire permission for it. However, the license states that I am not allowed to modify the figure. What steps are required to use the redesigned figure in my dissertation?

Kind regards,
Christian Goelz
